

A snapshot of Australia's children

Approximately 5.3 million children aged 0-14 live in Australia, making up almost 20% of the total Australian population. 5% are Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander, 8% were born overseas and 1% arrived as refugees. One third live in New South Wales, while about one quarter (24%) and one fifth (21%) live in Victoria and Queensland, respectively.

Every day in Australia there are more than 154 substantiated reports of child abuse or neglect.

How Barnardos Australia helps children

Barnardos Australia helps children by working with families to make them safe within their own homes.

When the court deems it unsafe for a child to stay with their family – whether short term or long term – we find safe and loving homes through foster care and adoption.

Our staff are specially trained to offer practical hands-on assistance. We also work with families in their own homes, at one of our centres or wherever they feel most comfortable.

About our children

The children referred to Barnardos have been exposed to exceptionally difficult circumstances in their young lives. Many have been hurt or neglected by the very people meant to care for and protect them and are in desperate need of a safe and supportive home.

Barnardos Australia provides an extensive range of services to help children including:

Parent education and counselling

Family and domestic violence support

Mental health support

Disability services

Adoption (Find-a-Family program)

Foster care

Emergency accommodation

Kin care

Cutting edge online case management systems (MyStory)

Temporary foster care (short term, crisis and respite care)

In 2014/15 we directly helped:

11,109 children through all our programs

947 children find safe homes through out-of-home care

21 children find permanent homes through our Find-a-Family adoption program

We believe with the right help, even the most vulnerable children can turn their lives around
