Cook Islands

PENRRHYN

History of the Cook Islands

Cook Islanders are true Polynesians; people of the poly (many) islands of the South Pacific. Connecting directly back to the finest seafarers of the vast Pacific, sophisticated navigation took them through vast ocean tracts in search of new lands and the Cook Islands came into being.

The great Polynesian migration began in 1500 BC when the islands were gradually populated by Maori ancestors who landed in their huge ocean going 'Vaka' canoes, guided by the stars and the power of Polynesian navigation.

But the Cook Islands' origins are owed to the Polynesians who arrived in Rarotonga around 800 AD.

A couple of Spanish explorers sighted the islands of Pukapuka and Rakahanga in 1595 and 1606, then all was quiet in the Cook Islands until 1773 when the great explorer Captain James Cook sighted Manuae, Palmerston, Takutea, Mangaia and Atiu.

In 1798 Captain William Bligh first sighted Aitutaki then following the very bloody Mutiny on the Bounty, the buccaneer Fletcher Christian sailed the Bounty into Rarotonga.

The first Christian missionaries followed some decades later in 1821 and although their arrival altered many of the traditional ways, the Cook Islanders managed to preserve their proud Polynesian heritage and blend it with their Christian faith beautifully.

The Cook Islands became an independent self-governing nation in 1965. The democratic government consists of an elected Parliament, as well as a House of Ariki or hereditary chiefs who provide consultation and advice.

Top 10 Things To Do

1 One Foot Island, Aitutaki Lagoon

2 Cultural Performance

3 Traditional Village

1. Aitutaki Lagoon

Make sure you tick Aitutaki Lagoon off your bucket list. With its sparkling turquoise water dotted with 15 motu (islets) and emerald green main island, this is undisputedly one of the most magnificent lagoons in the world. Be sure to mail a postcard and even get your passport stamped at the world's smallest post office on motu Tapuaetai (One Foot Island). (See pages 17 and 42 for details)

2. Cultural Performances

Be captivated by the natural charm of the Cook Islanders. Listen to the beat of the drums and be amazed by the fire dancers at a fun cultural show. Combine this with a traditional Polynesian feast (umu kai) for an unforgettable experience. (See pages 18 and 19 for details)

3. Visit a Traditional Village

Gain insight into the Cook Islands' culture with a visit to a traditional village. See traditional Maori methods of cooking, farming, medicine, fishing, carving and costume making. (See pages 18, 19 and 42 for details)

4. Fishing

Try your hand at game, bone and sport fishing. With fishing areas just beyond the reef, the action commences as soon as you leave the boat harbour. (See page 18 for details)

5. Scuba Diving

Dive with the friendly Aitutaki turtles, who love to have their tummies scratched! Enter a whole new world in the Cook Islands – fantastic visibility and incredible coral reefs teeming with marine life make the Cooks one of the most sought after diving spots in the South Pacific. (See page 42 for details)

6. Watersports

The Cook Islands are an aquatic playground for water lovers with a wide range of watersports on offer. The crystal clear lagoons beckon you to snorkel virtually anywhere inside the reef where you'll find an abundance of coral and fish. Try your hand at stand-up paddle boarding or perhaps grab a kayak and head for a deserted motu. On Rarotonga, hire a windsurfer, kite board or catamaran and find your way to Muri Lagoon.

7. Relaxation

The Cooks is one of the most relaxing destinations on earth. Set your body clock to island time and relax by the pool with a cocktail, soak up the sun, treat yourself to a rejuvenating massage or spa treatment, take a walk along the beach or watch a golden sunset.

8. Arts, Crafts & Black Pearls

Handcrafts are highly prized in the Cooks. Among the best-known souvenirs are the intricately woven rito hats, brightly coloured pareu (sarongs), wooden carvings, pate (drums), ukulele and tivaevae (hand-stitched quilts). The most romantic souvenir of course is the cultured black pearl. Avarua, Rarotonga's capital has a great selection of speciality shops and not to be missed is the colourful Punanga Nui Market held every Saturday morning. (See page 20 for details)

9. Mountain Treks

Join an accredited guide and navigate Rarotonga's Cross Island Trek to the rugged rainforest interior, see Wigmore's Waterfall and spectacular views from the iconic landmark, The Needle. On Aitutaki hike to the top of Mt Maungapu and be rewarded with panoramic views. (See page 20 for details)

10. Sunday – day of rest and worship

After a busy Saturday night, relax on a Sunday like the locals. Receive a warm Cook Islands welcome in one of the local Christian churches on Rarotonga or Aitutaki and feel your heart sing along with the amazing harmonies of the congregation.

Koromiri Motu, Rarotonga

Take a tour of Rarotonga, the Cooks' main island and you'll never be short of special places and spectacular scenery. Start at Rarotonga's main town, Avarua. A bustling, friendly, centre of activity, you'll find restaurants, cafés, shops and business facilities here, along with the airport just five minutes drive away. The Punanga Nui Markets, held every Saturday morning are a must do, offering everything from flower garlands, fresh fish, fruits and vegetables, to black pearls, rito hats and colourful pareus (sarongs).

One of the most stunning lagoons on Rarotonga is at Muri Beach. It's the spot for watersports including sailing, kayaking, stand-up paddle boarding and swimming. You can also try your hand at windsurfing and kite surfing, thanks to the tradewinds from May to November, or do a bit of whale spotting June to October. Four coral islets are a pretty addition to the lagoon – Koromiri Islet is the pick for weddings. A few bars, restaurants and shops on the beach provide all you need for a relaxing break.

Great snorkelling and swimming spots are never far away on Rarotonga. The south coast from Titikaveka to Vaimaanga and Aroa Beach have lovely wide, long beaches and the deepest lagoon on the island, making it one of the best for snorkelling and all-tide swimming. In Titikaveka town you'll also find the Cook Islands Christian Church. The locals singing at Sunday service is an island experience not to be missed.

Aroa Lagoon Marine Reserve, a breeding ground for tropical reef fish, provides another location for fantastic swimming and snorkelling. In fact you'll be spoilt for choice for fabulous spots along the whole west coast, a long stretch of sandy beach ending at Black Rock. Expect spectacular sunsets from this side of the island.

Rarotonga's mountainous interior, rising to 653 metres, provides a stunning contrast to the coast's aquatic wonderland. There are plenty of opportunities for action and adventure here, from guided walks to 4WD and quad bike tours.

Snorkel or swim among the tropical fish of Aitutaki Lagoon

Visit the uninhabited One Foot Island and get your passport stamped

Try scuba diving and deep sea fishing just beyond the reef

Hike to the top of Mt Maungapu

Meet the locals at church or the market

Hire an outrigger canoe and paddle to the nearest private motu

Featuring on many 'must see' destination lists, Aitutaki boasts arguably the most idyllic lagoon in the world. A vast expanse of crystal clear water scattered with uninhabited white sand islets that frame the palm-fringed main island. It's the quintessential tropical island scenery.

It doesn't get better than Aitutaki for experiencing the relaxed Polynesian way of life. Spend a few days here and before long you'll be operating on island time. For those with more energy, there's everything to do on or in the water; days are spent snorkelling, swimming, diving or kayaking. Learn to windsurf or kite surf, or try stand-up paddle boarding. Fly fishers will love the opportunity to seek out the elusive bonefish. Cruise to snorkelling spots and tiny islets (motus) such as gorgeous One Foot Island. Or visit Honeymoon Island – a long stretch of sand permanently under 20cm of water.

If you'd like to have your own patch of paradise – even for a short time – catch a water taxi or hire a canoe and paddle to the nearest motu for a picnic on your very own stretch of beach.

The lagoon takes centre stage but there are plenty of other options to divert your attention. For the best views on the main island, it's an easy 30 minute walk to the summit of Mt Maungapu, Aitutaki's highest point (124 metres). Delve into the region's history on a cultural or 4WD tour or experience the showmanship of the Aitutakians at a cultural show. The high spirited, hip swinging performances of the drummers and dancers are unbeatable.

Beyond the lush 'Fantasy Island' setting of Rarotonga and even beyond the turquoise dream that is Aitutaki are 13 other islands of the Cooks. Collectively, all islands beyond Rarotonga are called the Pa Enua – Outer Islands – but to clump them together is to underestimate the variety of their beauty, landscape and the experience that is awaiting the more adventurous traveller. These are islands where it is possible to get a rare glimpse into the simplicity and beauty of life as it once was, laid back, surrounded by nature, and connected to community.

There are three islands that are only a short 45 to 50 minute flight from Rarotonga but a world away. All three are coral atolls that have been thrust out of the ocean by volcanic activity creating the 'makatea' or coral platform – creating a very different landscape and a honeycomb of caves.

Atiu, with its exotic birdlife hiding amidst the jungle is an island of wild rainforest, distant birdcalls, stunning beaches and cave dwelling birds – nothing is what you expect! Ancient Marae (communal or sacred place) have been uncovered and are being restored; giant ferns cling to huge trees above as you walk, cycle or drive the roads around the island; huge stretches of beaches beg to be explored. Enjoy an Atiu Island coffee that has been traditionally roasted in coconut cream on an open fire. Birdman George is a must to meet – the name says it all. At night, join in the Tumunu – a local tradition of joining together at the end of the day over a coconut shell of orange 'beer' in the bush.

Mitiaro is the smallest island of the Southern Islands group, with less than 150 residents. It's a land of mischievous fun loving people who welcome visitors to their little island with humour and generosity. Stay in bed and breakfast accommodation in traditional style huts connected to family homes – a true local experience. Explore Vainauri, a hidden pool filled with cool clear water for swimming among stalagmites and stalactites or Te Vai Marere known for its healing properties.

Mangaia is the oldest island in the Pacific and its towering double makatea rises sharply from the clear Pacific waters until it reaches the middle of the island. Here, a hidden garden awaits, it is an island of concealed coves, huge cave systems and a bird watchers paradise – an island of contrasts, of harsh beauty and of adventure!
